Events to Envy

Patrice C. Bey
Principal/Founder

Patrice C. Bey has over 20 years of experience in event planning, corporate and special event management, speaker development, marketing, promotions. In 2008, Patrice launched Events to Envy with the vision, mission and passion to execute and collaborating with clients to provide exemplary service and extraordinary results Through Events to Envy, Patrice has worked with non-profit organizations, private contracts and Fortune 500 companies.

Most recently, Patrice served as the conference manager at the Indiana Youth Institute for the largest gathering of youth worker professionals in the Midwest. During her five-year tenure, she orchestrated a 20 percent increase in conference attendees. Prior to her role at the Indiana Youth Institute, she was the program and events manager at the Percussive Arts Society. There she managed the registration and attendee experience for over 5,000 attendees during the Percussive Arts Society International Convention.

From Indianapolis, to Washington, D.C. to New York, Patrice has vendor and client contacts nationwide. She has worked with both the American Chamber of Commerce Executives and the National Crime Prevention Council. With expertise in developing educational and professional development programs, she has planned, developed and executed hundreds of successful conferences and meetings, in addition to creating and facilitating over 300 memorable and iconic special events and programs.

Patrice is a proud graduate of Bradford College in Haverhill, Massachusetts with a bachelor's degree in business management. She currently resides in Indianapolis, Indiana.